Retain Town Charm

Charming-the word is often used to describe Madison. Well, there is nothing charming about over-development and more traffic. Not only will the shoreline area become over-developed, but we will experience an increase in traffic in our downtown, especially traveling south on the Boston Post Road from the Hammonaset Connector into downtown. What used to be considered a normal and tolerable wax and wane of out of town visitors may become a permanent problem if the LeylandAlliance development goes in at the Griswold Airport site.

The 127 units, as proposed by Leyland, could easily house 127 cars or more. As the holiday season approaches and as more of us are going downtown to pick up that perfect gift, think about the increase of cars as we circle around looking for the already hard to find space. That's why I am voting "Yes" on the referendum to save the space formally known as the Griswold Airport.
